The problem is that i have 2 input boxes. I want to select the value of one input box from a combo box and place it into the description input box. I have given the name of both input boxes as description and name respectively. Is there any way to do this? A: You can do this by cloning the content of the original element. This code might be a little complex, so here's an example to get you started: var nameElem = document.getElementById("name"); var

Metro Style Icons For Windows Phone Activation Key [Updated]

(1) All icons have a simple description, meaning for the developer: ** Single quote (') symbol is left-aligned and double quote (") is right-aligned. ** There is no comment, only description. (2) All icons have great meaning. The best example of this is the generic `NewWindow` icon. You never know what this means, but it means something good for a developer. That's what icon set should be. (3) Icons use the latest Windows Phone 7 icon guidelines. (4) All icons are 48x48 pixel, mostly transparent, 100% vector and are in PNG file format. (5) This icon set is made for Windows Phone developers, and is not made for iPhone or Android developers. (No hamburger menu on iPhone, nor rounded corners on Android.) HOW TO USE: Just copy and paste your favicon into the 96x96 or 256x256 folder. Or use ** tag to place it into your app. [!NPM]( [!Dependency Status]( [!Known Vulnerabilities]( [!Slack Channel]( 77a5ca646e
